

Summer Writing Camps 3rd thru 8th Grades!

YOUNG WRITERS' CONFERENCE

The Young Writers' Conference youngwritersconference.org is now taking signups for their summer writing camp! The model employed in the day long conference is now spread across one week to provide students with a fun and extensive writing experience.

Specialized daily workshops will consist of sessions with professional writers in a variety of disciplines, structured writing with specially trained teachers, and time for creative writing. At the end of the week, each young writer will have several developed pieces of creative writing that will be published.

Teachers at the Summer Camp will have received specific training by Dr. David Robertson, former fellow of the UCLA Writing Project and teacher-leader for the California Reading and Literature Project. Students will benefit from specialized one-on-one instruction and feedback from teachers, as well as group exercises, and mentoring from professional writers.
